EDEN CHEF...

As an EDEN CHEF apprentice you will:

- Be employed by the Eden Project in Cornwall
- Learn the very best skills and theory with The Cornwall College Group's professional cookery team
- Be inspired by industry experts in a series of master classes throughout the season at Eden
- Understand the importance of working for a sustainable future, the impact of food miles and the journey of food from field to plate
- Grow your own supplies in the grounds of Eden in a dedicated training garden (working alongside Eden Horticulture apprentices)
- Become a culinary specialist in: artisan bread and dough products, cooking fish from sustainable stock, use of poultry from ethically aware producers, cakes and pastries, soups and sauces, the role of food in a health conscious world
- Gain experience of working in varied, dynamic outlets, with different cooking and service styles

The training, theory and practical skills development of this programme will be delivered predominantly at the Eden Project in a dedicated learning space and the professional training kitchens at Cornwall College St Austell.
